¹ Count of the number of incidents reported under the following incident types:

Assault - Offender on Offender; Assault - Offender on Staff; Assault - Other - Offender on Offender; Assault - Other - Offender on Staff Member; Assault - Other - Staff Member on Offender; Assault - Other - Visitors on Staff Member; Assault - Sexual; Assault - Staff on Offender; Assault - Visitors on Staff Member; Assault (Serious) - Offender on Offender; Assault (Serious) - Offender on Staff; Assault (Serious) - Staff on Offender.

An incident is recorded under these incident types when there is reasonable evidence of a physical assault having occurred or where the person allegedly assaulted informs a staff member that such an assault occurred. The incident is classified under the relevant code depending on the parties involved and the seriousness of the injuries sustained.

² Count of the number of incidents reported under the following incident types: Damage - Offender Accommodation/Cell; Damage - Office/Building; Damage - Property

An incident is reported under 'damage - offender accommodation/cell' when there is damage (including fire damage) to a cell, detention unit or other offender accommodation which requires immediate reportate (ie. accommodation is unsuitable until repairs are complete).

An incident is reported under 'damage - office/ building' when there is damage (including fire damage) to an office or building, other than offender accommodation, irrespective of how the damage is sustained.

An incident is reported under ' damage - property' when there is damage (including fire damage) to property irrespective of the ownership of the property.

³ The term 'affray' is not specifically used in incident reporting data collected by QCS. The closest incident type which may capture this type of incident is 'Major Disturbance - Violent Demonstration'.

An incident is reported under 'Major Disturbance - Violent Demonstration' when three or more persons are involved in a violent demonstration which challenges the good order and discipline of the facility or other QCS Property.
