3. Offenders awaiting extradition

If notification has been received from another state that a warrant will be executed on an offender upon discharge and/or the offender is liable for extradition or will be extradited to that state, careful consideration should be given before assigning a minimum escape risk level. In cases where the information has been received verbally, the offender's file is to be noted. No progression or transfer to a low security facility is to be available.

Careful consideration should be given if assigning a minimum escape risk level for offenders served with an extradition order from another jurisdiction and those

Are there any factors that may impact on the offenders escape risk?

Provide details of any relevant considerations e.g.

- intelligence
- age when escaped compared to current age
- frequency of involvement in escape related activity
- were previous escape/s assessed as opportunistic
- personal problems (medical conditions, relationship difficulties, custody battle)
- changes in the offenders personal circumstances e.g. now has dependants
- unpredictable behaviour (unstable, thrill seeking, don't care attitude)
- deportation or extradition
- magnitude of sentence/sentence length
