APPENDIX A – LIST OF EXPOSURE STANDARDS	13

1. INTRODUCTION

This document contains a list of workplace exposure standards for airborne contaminants (exposure standards) and how to meet your duties under the Work Health and Safety (WHS) Act and the WHS Regulations.

In providing guidance, the word 'should' is used in this document to indicate a recommended course of action, while 'may' is used to indicate an optional course of action.

This document also includes references to sections of the WHS Act and Regulations which set out the legal requirements. These references are not exhaustive. The words 'must', 'requires' or 'mandatory' indicate a legal requirement exists and must be complied with for you to comply with your duties under the WHS Act and Regulations.

1.1 Who has health and safety duties in relation to exposure standards?

There are more specific requirements to manage risks under the WHS Regulations, including those associated with exposure standards and asbestos.

Who	Duties	Provisions
A person who conducts a business or undertaking	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ensure, so far as is reasonably practicable, workers and other people are not exposed to health and safety risks arising from the business or undertaking. 	WHS Act s 19
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> eliminate health and safety risks so far as is reasonably practicable, and if this is not reasonably practicable, minimise those risks so far as is reasonably practicable.
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> manage risks under the WHS Regulations, including those associated with using, handling and storing hazardous chemicals safely, airborne contaminants and asbestos. 	WHS Regulations r 48
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ensure that no person at the workplace is exposed to a substance or mixture in an airborne concentration that exceeds the exposure standard for the substance or mixture. 	WHS Regulations r 49
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ensure that air monitoring is carried out to determine the airborne concentration of a substance or mixture at the workplace to which an exposure standard applies if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> the person is not certain on reasonable grounds whether or not the airborne concentration of the substance or mixture at the workplace exceeds the relevant exposure standard, or 	WHS Regulations r 50

	Note: This is not required in an area that is enclosed to prevent the release of respirable asbestos fibres and negative pressure is used in accordance with Regulation 477.

2 Further guidance

Exposure standards do not identify the dividing line between a healthy and unhealthy work environment. Natural biological variation and the range of individual susceptibilities mean a small number of people may experience adverse health effects below the exposure standard. Sections 17 and 19 of the WHS Act together require that exposure to substances in the workplace is kept as low as is reasonably practicable.

For further information about the application of exposure standards, see *Guidance on the interpretation of workplace exposure standards for airborne contaminants*¹.

2. INTERPRETATION OF EXPOSURE STANDARDS

2.1 The meaning of key terms

Airborne contaminant means a contaminant in the form of a fume, mist, gas, vapour or dust, and includes microorganisms. An airborne contaminant of this type is a potentially harmful substance that is either not naturally in the air or is present in an unnaturally high concentration and to which workers may be exposed in their working environment.

Breathing zone means a hemisphere of 300 mm radius extending in front of a person's face and measured from the midpoint of an imaginary line joining the ears.

Exposure standard means an exposure standard in the Workplace exposure standard for airborne contaminants in Appendix A. An exposure standard listed in Appendix A represents the airborne concentration of a particular substance or mixture that must not be exceeded. The exposure standard can be of three forms:

- a) eight hour time weighted average,
- b) peak limitation, and
- c) short term exposure limit.

Peak limitation means a maximum or peak airborne concentration of a substance determined over the shortest analytically practicable period of time which does not exceed 15 minutes.

Short term exposure limit (STEL) means the time weighted average maximum airborne concentration of a substance calculated over a 15 minute period.

Eight hour time weighted average (TWA) means the maximum average airborne concentration of a substance when calculated over an eight hour working day, for a five day working week.

2.2 Adjustment of exposure standards

To comply with the general duties under the WHS Act and specific duties in the WHS Regulations, the following issues should be taken into account when interpreting exposure standards.

Adjustment of eight hour time weighted average exposure standards

Where workers have a working day longer than eight hours or work more than 40 hours a week, the person conducting the business or undertaking must determine whether the TWA exposure standard needs to be adjusted to compensate for the greater exposure during the longer work shift, and decreased recovery time between shifts.

Peak limitation or short term exposure limit exposure standards must not be adjusted. TWA exposure standards must not be adjusted (increased) for shorter work shifts.

2.3 Other factors affecting risk

Not all chemical substances behave the same and therefore some present higher risks to workers than others. Factors that increase risks to workers must be considered when managing risks in the workplace to comply with duties under the WHS Act and Regulations to ensure, so far as is reasonably practicable, the health and safety of workers.

Known factors that can increase risks to workers include:

Skin absorption

Some substances easily penetrate intact skin and are absorbed into the body. Skin absorption may be a significant source of exposure. These substances are given the notation 'Sk' in column (5) of Appendix A.

Sensitisation

Some substances are known to cause sensitisation and create greater risks to sensitised workers. These substances are given the notation 'Sen' in column (5) of Appendix A. Sensitised workers may also react to levels of the substance below the exposure standard and should not be exposed further to the substance.

Mixtures of substances

The combined effect of exposure to multiple substances, either simultaneously or sequentially, which increase risk to health and safety must be considered. These are shown in Table 1.

Table 1 Factors to consider when exposed to multiple substances

Combined effect of two or more chemicals	Description
Independent effects	Where toxicological evidence clearly indicates that two or more contaminants have totally distinct mechanisms of effect on the body, each substance may be separately evaluated against the relevant exposure standard.
Additive effects	Where the combined effect of exposure to two or more contaminants that have the same target organ or the same mechanism of action give a total effect on the body that equals the sum of effects from the individual substances.
Synergism	Where both chemicals individually have an effect and where the total effect is greater than an additive effect.
Potentiation	Where a chemical enhances the effect of another chemical, or a biochemical or physiological effect, for example exposure to ototoxins can damage hearing or balance functions of the inner ear.

2.4 Exposure standards and using excursion limits

Time weighted average (TWA) ✕

During periods of daily exposure to an airborne contaminant, exposure above this value is permitted for short periods, if they are compensated for by equivalent exposures below the exposure standard during the working day. If there is a STEL and a TWA exposure standard, the STEL must also be observed.

Short term exposure limit (STEL) ✕

The STEL is a 15 minute time weighted average exposure limit which must not be exceeded at any time during an eight hour working day, even if the exposure during the full day is less than the TWA exposure standard. Exposures at the STEL must not be longer than 15 minutes and must not be repeated more than four times per day. There must be at least 60 minutes between successive exposures at the STEL.

Peak limitation

Peak or peak limitation exposure standards are set for some substances, exposure to which can induce acute effects after relatively brief exposure to high concentrations. Excursions above the peak limitation exposure standard are not permitted at any time because to do so would expose a person above the exposure standard for that substance.

Although it is recognised there are analytical limitations to the measurement of some substances, to comply with 'peak limitation' exposure standards, exposure must be determined over the shortest analytically practicable period of time. However this period must not exceed 15 minutes.

2.5 Monitoring exposure

Under Section 19 of the WHS Act, a person conducting a business or undertaking must ensure, so far as is reasonably practicable, that the conditions at the workplace are monitored for the purpose of preventing illness or injury of workers. The WHS Regulations also require a person conducting a business or undertaking to carry out monitoring for airborne contaminants in certain situations.

Where monitoring of airborne contaminants is done to estimate a person's exposure, the monitoring must be carried out in the breathing zone of the person.

2.6 Keeping exposure as low as reasonably practicable

Section 17 of the WHS Act requires risks to health and safety be eliminated so far as is reasonably practicable. If it is not reasonably practicable to eliminate risk, it must be minimised.

To comply with this duty under the WHS Act, you must ensure that exposure to any hazardous chemical, or any substance with an exposure standard, is kept as low as reasonably practicable.

The information contained in this document and the accompanying Guidance on the Interpretation of Workplace Exposure Standard for Airborne Contaminants should allow you to meet this duty.

3. LIST OF EXPOSURE STANDARDS

The list of exposure standards is shown at Appendix A. Information relating to the list is included in this section.

The list of exposure standards at Appendix A is updated from time to time. However, changes to that list do not automatically take effect in all jurisdictions. When changes to exposure standards take effect in a jurisdiction depends on how the exposure standards are implemented in the jurisdiction. Further information on when changes to exposure standards take effect in each jurisdiction is available on the Safe Work Australia website.

3.2 Notes

- (a) This value is for inhalable dust containing no asbestos and < 1% crystalline silica.
- (b) Fibres longer than 5 µm, width less than 3 µm and with an aspect ratio of not less than 3:1, as measured by the membrane filter method, at 400-650X magnification phase contrast illumination.
- (c) Lint free dust as measured by the vertical elutriator for cotton dust sampler described in the Transactions of the National Conference on Cotton Dust and Health 1970, North Carolina University Press, Chapel Hill, pp. 33-43, 1971.
- (d) For the two substances marked with this footnote (benomyl and sodium azide), the exposure standards are established as gravimetric (mg/m³) values and converted into volumetric values.
- (e) Containing no asbestos and < 1% crystalline silica.
- (f) [this note is not currently in use]
- (g) Some compounds in these groups are classified as carcinogenic or as sensitisers. Check individual classification details on the safety data sheet for information on classification.
- (h) Man-Made Mineral Fibres (MMVF) with random orientation, alkaline oxide and alkali earth oxide (Na₂O+K₂O+CaO+ MgO+BaO) content less or equal to 18% by weight.
- (i) As described in IARC Monographs on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans, Volume 81, Man-Made Vitreous Fibres, pp. 45-54, 2002, IARC Press, Lyon, France³.

³ This monograph is available from: <http://monographs.iarc.fr/ENG/Monographs/vol81/index.php>.

- (j) Where almost all the airborne material is fibrous MMVF, an inhalable dust exposure standard of 2 mg/m³ (8 hour TWA) must also be applied to minimise mechanical irritation from largely non-respirable fibre. This inhalable standard is not to take precedence over the respirable fibre standard, where applicable. For those applications where MMVF is combined with other material such that the proportion of respirable fibres is extremely low or is difficult to measure because of the larger portion of non-fibrous MMVF material, it is appropriate to apply the exposure standard for nuisance dusts of 10 mg/m³, measured as inhalable dust (8 hour TWA).
- (k) MMVF with random orientation, alkaline oxide and alkali earth oxide (Na₂O+K₂O+CaO+MgO+BaO) content greater than 18% by weight.
- (l) Any MMVF which have not been tested according to the test protocol Methods for the Determination of the Hazardous Properties for Human Health of Man Made Mineral Fibres, April 1999⁴ and Note Q in EC Regulation No. 1272/2008 page 353/335 (CLP regulations) or fibres which have been tested and failed to comply with these tests.
- (m) Any MMVF which have been tested according to the test protocol Methods for the Determination of the Hazardous Properties for Human Health of Man Made Mineral Fibres April 1999 and Note Q in EC Regulation No. 1272/2008 page 353/335 and found to comply with these tests.
- (n) Any MMVF that meet the requirements of Note Q in EC Regulation No. 1272/2008 page 353/335 are exempted from mandatory classification in the European Union as a carcinogen under the Globally Harmonized System for Classification and Labelling of Chemicals (GHS). Note IARC has classified mineral wools (glass wool, rock wool (stone wool), slag wool and continuous glass filament) as IARC Category 3: not classifiable as to carcinogenicity in humans.
- (o) Any MMVF that meet the requirements of Note R in Regulation EC No. 1272/2008 page 353/335 are exempted from mandatory classification as a carcinogen under the GHS in the European Union.

3.3 Units for exposure standards

The airborne concentrations of gases, vapours and particulate contaminants are expressed gravimetrically as milligrams of substance per cubic metre of air, (mg/m³). For gases and vapours the concentration is also indicated in parts per million (ppm) by volume. Note: There are some exceptions. Where both gravimetric and volumetric values are given, the volumetric (ppm) value is exact and should be used as it is not affected by changes in temperature and pressure.

Because the gravimetric units of mg/m³ are affected by temperature and pressure variations, all exposure standards are expressed relative to standard conditions of 25°C and 1 atmosphere pressure (101.3 kPa).

The following conversion formula can be used to convert from ppm to mg/m³.

$$\text{Concentration in mg/m}^3 = \frac{\text{Molecular weight} \times \text{concentration in ppm}}{24.4}$$

where 24.4 is the molar volume of a gas in litres at 25°C and 101.3 kPa

TWA values for gravimetric (mg/m³) exposure standards are for the inhalable fraction unless noted as respirable dust.

3.4 Advisory carcinogen and sensitisation classifications

Chemical substances which have workplace exposure standards under the WHS regulations and are also classified as known, presumed or suspected carcinogens or are known respiratory or skin sensitisers according to the criteria of the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals (GHS) are identified in the list of exposure standards in Appendix A.

The carcinogen and sensitisation classifications in Appendix A are taken from the European Union's Annex VI to Regulation (EC) No 1272/2008⁵. Annex VI includes lists of GHS classification information for certain substances or groups of substances. These classifications are legally binding within the European Union.

Classifications are provided in this document for information only so a person conducting a business or undertaking and workers can take action to minimise exposure. Under the WHS regulations, it is the classification criteria which must be complied with and it is the duty of the manufacturer or importer of a hazardous chemical to ensure it is correctly classified against those criteria. Classifications may become out-dated and incorrect where new information about a substance's hazards becomes available. The absence of notation in these columns does not guarantee that the chemical does not pose a carcinogenicity or sensitisation hazard. Additional hazard classes and categories not listed in this document may also apply.

The three categories of carcinogens under the GHS are described below.

- (a) Carcinogenicity Category 1A – Known to have carcinogenic potential for humans.
The classification of a chemical into this category is based largely on human evidence from studies that have established a causal relationship between human exposure and the development of cancer.
- (b) Carcinogenicity Category 1B – Presumed to have a carcinogenic potential for humans.
The classification of a substance into this category is based largely on animal evidence where there is sufficient evidence to demonstrate carcinogenicity in animals or where there is limited evidence of carcinogenicity in humans and animals.
- (c) Carcinogenicity Category 2 – Suspected human carcinogen.
The classification of a chemical into this category is on the basis of evidence from human and animal studies, where the evidence is not sufficiently convincing to place the chemical into Category 1 or from limited evidence of carcinogenicity in human or animal studies.

There are two categories of sensitiser in the GHS as below:

- (a) Respiratory Sensitiser – A substance that leads to hypersensitivity of the airways after being inhaled.
- (b) Skin Sensitiser – A substance that leads to an allergic response after skin contact.
